Commercial Collaborations

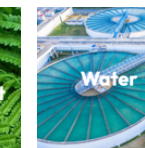

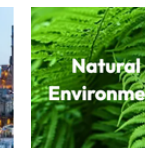

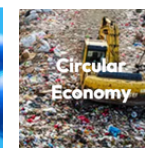

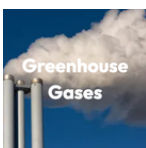

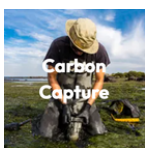

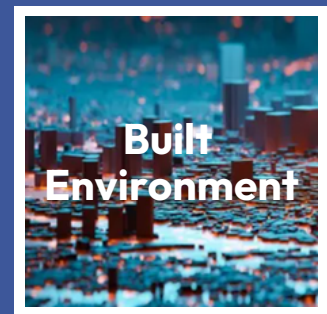

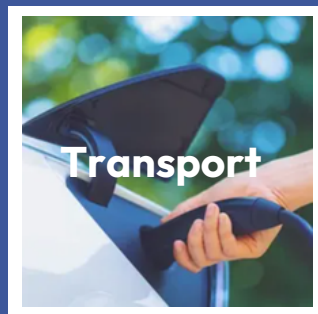

TECHNOLOGY SCOUTING

We act as a broker between 'innovation hungry' corporates and our extensive network of cleantech sector innovators. The result is a win-win for corporates seeking leading edge solutions and for innovators in finding the right people to connect with in a large, global enterprise.

Large companies approach us with a list of technological innovations for which they are seeking solutions, from low-carbon innovations in the built environment, to technologies for waste management and to energy storage.

We work with the corporate to create a needs statement and share this with our members and other cleantech companies in partner organisations across Europe.

The proposals from members are shortlisted and we arrange one-to-one meetings between the corporates and the innovators which they have prioritised.
